

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

ABOUT

The main function of an early childhood educator (ECE) is to create an environment that promotes the healthy physical, motor, cognitive, language, socio-affective and moral development of a child by establishing a caring relationship. In addition, the educator's role is to develop, organize, lead and evaluate educational activities that promote the overall development of the children under their care.

The DEC in Early Childhood Education is a three-year training program that prepares and qualifies students to assist, guide, and educate children aged 0 to 12. Additionally, graduates from this program will have the competencies to take part in the management or ownership of a daycare center.
